1. Guidelines for establishing Pilot Schools

1.1 List of Issues and Criteria

The Table below lists issues to be considered and criteria to be met by a school/community before a pilot project can be established.

ISSUES	DETAILS
1. Travel to and from project schools	Select schools initially on basis of accessibility for ongoing in-servicing of teachers and projected monitoring and evaluation.
2. Community support and enthusiasm for the project	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • School Board supportive of instruction in vernacular and English willing to meet regularly; • Community willing to actively support and encourage teachers and students in learning in and through two languages; • Community members willing to engage with teachers in developing a community calendar and relevant supporting curriculum.
3. Teachers <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Trained teachers • Teachers who speak, read and write the languages of the classroom • Teachers who can write their language well according to the grammatical constraints of their language • Teachers supportive of and enthusiastic about the use of vernacular and English in the classroom • Teachers prepared to set aside time for in-service sessions and training workshops • Teachers willing to work together as a school-wide team of collaborative professionals 	Teacher needs: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Upgrading of own levels of language and literacy competence in the language selected as LOI; • Skilling of teachers to be able to explain the grammar of their vernacular; • In-servicing in strategies for teaching oral language and literacy for academic purposes; • In-servicing in methods and strategies for assessing progress of students from term to term; from class to class – moderation as one such strategy; • In-servicing in developing skills in programming and planning in two languages across the curriculum; • Knowledge about different text types – “curriculum genres”; • Knowledge about how to create materials in the vernacular.
4. Head teacher	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Supportive and enthusiastic about vernacular language in the classroom ; • Prepared to plan for interruptions to weekly and term programs to make time for ongoing teacher in-service sessions
5. Language	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consensual decision by school staff, parents and community members on the language of instruction; • Orthography of the language in existence; • Word book or dictionary suitable for use in the classroom;

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Simplified grammar suitable for use by teachers available in the community language; • Literacy materials available through workshops conducted to create them.
6. Education Authorities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Willing to plan awareness sessions for communities on reasons for change in language policy; • Pro-active in supporting the Policy Framework and Strategic Action Plan; • Prepared to post teachers fluent in speaking the community language to appropriate classrooms/schools.
7. Ministry	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Establishment of position for officer with direct responsibility for overseeing development of the pilot project (Co-ordinator role); • Establishment of steering committee to oversee implementation process.

1.2 Community and School Board of Management needs prior to involvement in the project

- Head Teacher and community leaders' meetings to discuss the project and raise awareness.
- Board of Management workshop to raise awareness and give training regarding responsibilities for implementing the policy;
- Head teacher and Board Chair introduced to school-based planning, monitoring and evaluation of the specific objectives of the policy.

1.3 Teacher in-service needs prior to the implementation of a school's pilot scheme.

School-based workshops arranged for <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • community awareness; • developing personal literacy competence of Primary level teachers in both Vernacular and English language and literacy; • developing methodology for teaching Vernacular language; • developing a community calendar as the foundation for local curriculum development with community people, class teachers and head teacher; • programming and planning techniques and strategies for two-languages teaching; • developing assessment strategies for vernacular and English teaching and learning, and how to keep records of student learning; • Materials preparation workshops – how to create texts of different kinds, how to construct Big Books with supporting resources and how to innovate on existing texts.

1.4 Process for applying to be considered as a Pilot Project school

- The school Board chairperson, on behalf of the community, applies for selection;
- The list of approved selection criteria (see Table 1.1 above) sent to the school;
- The school responds with the information requested;
- The school decides on the model of introduction vernacular and second/foreign language;
- MEHRD personnel visit the community and school to confirm information given;
- Implementation schedule developed between the community/school/MEHRD;
- A mentor/trainer is nominated to oversee the in-service training of teachers and to do further community awareness, where necessary.

2. Guidelines for managing different community and school language situations

Situation 1 : The students and teacher(s) share a common vernacular language.

In these situations, there can be a smooth transition between ECE students and the Year 1 class. However, note that

Teachers need to be highly literate in L1 for Grades 1 – 3

Teachers need to have strong oral competence in English for Grades 2 and 3 and strong literate competence from Grade 3 onward.

A curriculum based on the community seasonal calendar (Annex 9) is developed by a curriculum committee of community 'knowers' working with primary teachers.

Supporting materials are developed from the guidelines given in the syllabus documents.

Situation 2 : Classrooms with speakers of several languages

A strategy for achieving a bilingual programme in classrooms with speakers of several languages is to adopt a multi-level teaching approach. This brings together students

- from the same language group,
- different age groups

into one class, thus:

Language A	Language B	Language C
(One classroom, one teacher)	(One classroom, one teacher)	(One classroom, one teacher)
Year 1	Year 1	Year 1
Year 2	Year 2	Year 2
Year 3	Year 3	Year 3

The teacher provides different levels of learning activities for the different age groups. The lessons are conducted in the students' first language with carefully staged introduction of the second language. The multi-level strategy could also be followed through in Grades 4, 5 and 6.

This approach could be used for part of the school day. It would require some training to ensure that teachers can deliver lessons in a multi-level situation, to an acceptable standard.

Note that:

- Teachers need to be highly literate in their Vernacular (i.e. for Language 1, 2 or 3).
- Teachers need to have high levels of competence in oral and written English.
- Teachers need to be competent in multi-level teaching .

Situation 3 : One majority community language and several smaller languages

Students can be grouped thus:

- one classroom of the majority of speakers;
- one classroom made up of the students with different languages with Pijin as the LOI, if the students know Pijin.

(See diagram on following page)

Language A majority of speakers	Pijin
(One classroom, one teacher)	(One classroom, one teacher)
Year 1	Year 1
Year 2	Year 2
Year 3	Year 3

Again, note that:

Teachers need to be highly literate in their Vernacular (larger language group or Pijin).

Teachers need to have high levels of competence in oral and written English.

Teachers need to be competent in multi-level teaching.

Situation 4 : Pijin is not used in the community, and there are several small language groups

The community is given the choice of which language to use as the LOI. Community support to 'stream' classrooms according to language groups for speakers of the individual languages could be organized for one or two afternoons a week. Community members acting as teachers lead students to engage in relevant activities in their own language groups.

- Teachers need to be highly literate in their Vernacular (i.e. for Language 1, 2 or 3).
- Teachers need to have high levels of competence in oral and written English.
- Teachers need to be competent in multi-level teaching.

Language A	Pijin
(One classroom, one teacher)	(One classroom, one teacher)
Year 1	Year 1
Year 2	Year 2
Year 3	Year 3

Situation 5 : Where there is no majority language

As, for example, in the urban areas, Pijin as the vernacular can be used as LOI after discussion with the parents.

ECE (ages 3 – 5)	Vernacular	language	as	language	of	instruction	for	all	subjects	→

Explanation of Option 1

Early Childhood Years

- Vernacular is used as the LOI for the Early Childhood years.
- In ECE centres with speakers of many languages in the same classroom, Pijin can be chosen as the LOI.

Primary Years 1 – 3

- In this Model there is an emphasis on building a strong foundation in the L₁ before introduction of the second language English. This is because children learn the second language more quickly when they achieve academically in the first language. For this reason, students complete their Year 1 with vernacular as the LOI.
- As the model indicates, Oral English is introduced in the second part of Year 2.

Primary Years 4 - 6

- In Years 5 – 6 the transition to English needs to be given more time due to the delayed introduction of English.
- In this model, by Year 6 students spend 50% of the school week learning through vernacular and 50% learning through English. Both languages are used as LOI's in the appropriate subjects.

Junior Secondary Years 7 – 9

- Some part of the school programme is still taught in vernacular through these final years of formal schooling. This is to promote language maintenance and use and to provide school leavers with a thorough grounding in their vernacular so that they are well-prepared for a community-oriented future if they so choose.
- In these years, English is the LOI with vernacular used for explanations of complex concepts where appropriate.

Senior Secondary years 10-12

- In Senior Secondary years, students have the option of learning the languages of trade, foreign relations, diplomacy and technology. These include: Mandarin, French, Spanish, Taiwanese, Japanese and Korean.

Note: In Junior Secondary and Senior Secondary years, students have the option of learning an additional language as an extra-curricular subject, depending on availability of local resources (teacher, materials, etc.) This could be a neighbouring language, the language of the landowners where the school is situated, or Pijin.

Option 2 : Inclusion of Pijin as a subject with Vernacular and English.

	10/90%	20/80%	30/70%	40/60%	50/50%	60/40%	70/30%	80/20%	90/10%	100%

Vernacular

Pijin

English

Explanation of Option 2

Early Childhood Years

- Vernacular is used as the LOI for the Early Childhood years.
- In ECE centres with speakers of many languages in the same classroom, Pijin can be chosen as the LOI.
- In the second half of their final year in Early Childhood, 5-year-olds may be introduced to oral English as preparation for transition to school.

Primary Years 1 – 3

- Oral English is taught as a subject for part of the school day until the end of Year 2. For all other subjects, the LOI is the vernacular.
- The choice may be made to delay introduction of English until a later Year.
- Basic English literacy is taught from Year 3 onwards, along with the introduction of Maths in English.

Primary Years 4 - 6

- After a thorough foundation is laid in vernacular, English is gradually introduced for specified subjects. The subjects are taught with English as the LOI. For all other subjects, vernacular is the LOI.
- In this model, by Year 6 students spend 40% of the school week learning through vernacular and 50% learning through English. Both languages are used as LOI in the appropriate subjects.
- Pijin may be introduced as a subject in Year 4. If students speak Pijin, literacy may begin then; if students do not speak Pijin and it is not used in the community, oral Pijin only should be taught.

Junior Secondary Years 7 – 9

- Some part of the school programme is still taught in vernacular through these final years of formal schooling. This is to promote language maintenance and to provide school leavers with a thorough grounding in their vernacular so that they are well-prepared for a community-oriented future if they so choose.
- Speaking and writing in Pijin may continue through to Year 9 if that is deemed feasible, particularly where students may be proceeding on to a Community High School where students speaking other languages attend common classes.
- In these years, English is the LOI with vernacular (or Pijin) used for explanations of complex concepts.

Senior Secondary years 10-12

- In Senior Secondary years, students have the option of learning the languages of trade, foreign relations, diplomacy and technology. These include: Mandarin, French, Spanish, Taiwanese, Japanese.
- Note: In Junior Secondary and Senior Secondary years, students have the option of learning an additional language as an extra-curricular subject, depending on availability of local resources (teacher, materials, etc.) This could be a neighbouring language, the language of the land-owners where the school is situated, or Pijin.

Option 3 : Early Introduction of English

Key: Vernacular English

Explanation of Option 3

Early Childhood Years

- Vernacular is used as the LOI for the Early Childhood years.
- In ECE centres with speakers of many languages in the same classroom, Pijin can be chosen as the LOI.
- In the second half of their final year in Early Childhood, 5-year-old children may be introduced to oral English as preparation for transition to school.

Primary years 1-3

- The vernacular language chosen by the community and school is the LOI for the lower primary Years 1 – 3. Teaching and learning is in and through the vernacular.
- Students in schools that select Model 1 are introduced to oral English as a subject only in Year 1 for a proportion of the school day in keeping with the model selected.
- Students do not begin literacy in the second language (English) until the third term of Year 2. This is to allow students at least a year of formal schooling in oral and written vernacular before introducing English. This allows them to develop confidence, competence and creativity in learning in vernacular language.
- There is a gradual introduction of subjects to be taught in English across the years of primary schooling. English is used as the LOI for those subjects; vernacular may be used where necessary for explaining more complex concepts. The exception is for Language Arts English, where English only is used for that lesson time.

Primary years 4– 6

- By Year 4 students spend 50% of the school week learning through vernacular and 50% learning through English. Both languages are used as LOI's in the appropriate subjects and at the appropriate times as per the model.
- In Years 5 – 6 all subjects are taught in English, using English as the LOI except for Personal Development subjects, which are taught through the vernacular.

Junior Secondary Years 7 – 9

- Some part of the school programme is still taught in vernacular through these final years of basic education. This is to promote language maintenance and use and to give school leavers a thorough grounding in their vernacular so that they are well-prepared for a community-oriented future if they so choose.
- In these years, English is the LOI with vernacular used for explanations of complex concepts when needed to enhance students' understanding.

Senior Secondary Years 10-12

- Students have the option of learning the languages of trade, foreign relations, diplomacy and technology. These include Mandarin, French, Spanish, Korean, Japanese.

Note: In Junior Secondary and Senior Secondary years, students have the option of learning an additional language as an extra-curricular subject, depending on availability of local resources (teacher, materials, etc.) This could be a neighbouring language, the language of the land-owners where the school is situated, or Pijin. It is noted that the right to choose the language of learning and teaching is vested in individual parents. That right, however, needs to be exercised within the overall framework of the obligation on the education system to provide a quality education for all, and in keeping with the Vision and Goals of the policy.
